JEAN CAYEUX

JEAN CAYEUX—Golden tan and brown with a faint touch of blue. About as nearly perfect as an Iris can be with its large flowers, fine form, good texture, straight, well branched stalk and good color. One of my favorites. $3.00 each.

Bearded Iris

LAST year I presented my initial list of bearded Iris and in the present list I am offering a much more extensive selection of the better new varieties including a number of sorts as yet very rare. The Iris is well known for its landscape value and it holds a unique position as being one of the most beautiful and satisfactory of flowers for this purpose, and at the same time is one of the most easily grown. I should like to suggest the planting of an Iris border if you do not already have one and advise the use of Delphiniums in the background with hybrid Lupins interspersed among the Iris clumps.

Stock offered for cash or 25% with order and balance before delivery or C. O. D. On orders for $10.00 or more, 10% extra in stock may be ordered. For orders of $30.00 or more, 15% extra in stock may be ordered free. This offer does not apply on collections.

My supply of many of the newer varieties is very limited. Early orders are advised where novelties are wanted.

Orders for Iris should be received before September 1st as later orders may be delayed due to digging of Glads soon after this date. If interested in Gladiolus, send for my large illustrated catalogue.

Iris Price List

In the descriptions, the letter "S" denotes the upright petals or standards; and the letter "F" the lower petals or falls. Older varieties are in most cases left to the lists following the varieties described below.

- ALICE HARDING—A new tall soft yellow Iris of good form. Considered among the best. Falls almost horizontal. $7.00 each.
